

General Guidelines for a Ribbon Cutting

Select a Date:

Mondays and weekends are not good days of the week for this event. Most elected officials, dignitaries and business people are not available on those days. Fridays are good to kick off a huge grand opening weekend event, giving you a chance to spread out the event and invite the whole community.

Select a Time:

Mornings are often the best time. Pick a time that will be convenient for you, your business associates, and others attending.

Invitations:

Make your RSVP date at least one week prior to your event. This will help you plan for enough space and food.

Create a guest list. Be sure to invite your family, friends, bank officials, suppliers, local dignitaries, and anyone else who aided you in the development and success of your business.

Send the invitations out two weeks prior to your ribbon cutting event.

Press Release:

Send a press release to the appropriate local media two weeks prior to your event if you want it to be announced, or prepare a press release after your event and attach a photo for print.

Refreshments:

You may want to provide light refreshments or food at your ribbon cutting. We suggest items such as coffee, juice, fresh fruit, and pastries for breakfast events, and cheeses, crackers, small sandwiches, vegetables and beverages for afternoon or evening events. A listing of Chamber member caterers is in the back of this guide.

Ribbon-Cutting Event:

Pick a place to cut the ribbon that will showcase your business in a photo and that will include your business name in the shot if possible. Designate the person who will hold the honorary giant scissors. The Ambassadors will bring the ribbon and scissors with them to the event.

Pictures:

The Ambassadors will be taking photos of your event. The Chamber office will send copies of the photos to a designated email address. If your business is a member of the St. Mary's Chamber, your ribbon-cutting photo will appear in the next available edition of our monthly newsletter, the "Chamber Update."

Opening Remarks:

Opening remarks should include a welcome statement, introduction of the business owner(s), special guests, and supporters of your business (organizations, banks, and individuals). Always recognize any local officials attending your event. Don't forget to tell the attendees about your business--how it started, how many years it took, and a description of your product or service.

Thank-you Notes:

It is a good business practice to thank all your attendees. It strengthens the bond you have with the business community and your customers.
